

Non-Alcoholic Beverages

A rather strange category for a number of reasons, but still a vital part of beverages in general. Historically, we are used to seeing a number of low and alcohol-free beers which have gotten significantly better over the past few years. But more recently, we've been seeing more alcohol-free spirits – if one could call them that. Typically, they are infusions of various herbs, spices or fruits without any of the alcohol – providing more variety in mixed drinks or alcohol free beverages. So whatever reason you may have, or just because you'd rather not be consuming, the options are better than ever. Tom Firth
