

Fruit Wine

Though typically overlooked, fruit wines – meaning wines made from a fruit other than grapes – can be a wonderful slice of flavour. Notoriously difficult to make a fruit wine with good balance, it is also a tough thing to manage to preserve the all-important purity of fruit. Ever had a bruised strawberry? Not so good, is it? The hardy folks that make the fruit wines below, have the tools (including the fruit), the talent, and the passion. Give them a try if you can, and remember that many local producers are on-site at local farmers markets. Tom Firth
