

This understated part of the adult beverage industry has been undergoing a resurgence like no other these past few years. Helped along a little by the COVID-19 situation, more people were drinking at home this summer, and more people were looking for options. At this year's competition, we had plenty of choices – new and old for our judges, and have split them into two smaller sections for convenience. Coolers are those “classic” sorts, while Ready to Drink is more focused on pre-mixed or cocktail-style refreshers. Hey, you can't drink wine everyday.... Tom Firth
